

Weekend Update from Boarding

Saturday, we went to the Montréal Biodôme! A nature and science museum that hosts five different ecosystems under one roof. We went from seeing parrots and capybaras in the Tropical Rainforest to penguins in the Sub-Antarctic Islands. We were able to observe animals and plants in the complex reproduction of the natural environment and the interaction between animal and plant species. Our favourite was the tropical rainforest where we got a nice break from the winter weather!

In the evening, we all came together to play board games with a hot coco in hand, and ended the night with a good rom-com classic “How to Lose a Guy in 10 Days.” On Sunday, we went to the wellness center to work out and participated in a yoga and meditation session in group. This week we also said “see you soon” to Amaya, an exchange student from our sister school in Mexico City. We will miss her kindness and care in Boarding.
